

shopping

Orkney offers you the chance to have a real shopping experience. It's blessed with individual, independent shops run by people who really know their stuff, and don't mind spending a bit of time with you to share their knowledge. In the isles, and the further flung mainland parishes, you'll find shops that are social centres as much as retail outlets; a source of information on everything from tides to where to spot puffins. And the studio shops of our artists and craftspeople offer unique opportunities to see these talented individuals at work. Whether it's books or bread you want, butcher meat or brooches, Orkney has real quality and choice in abundance.
